

Directorate of Intelligence

Secret

25X1

0047633
NESA*10730*33
NESA*2920*88

0376-0377

NESA PRODUCTION OFFICER
OFFICE OF NEAR EAST-SOUTH ASIA ANALYSIS
ROOM 6G02
HQS (A-2/1)

Afghanistan: Insurgent Manpower (U)

A Research Paper

Secret

NESA 88-10030
May 1988

Copy 376

Page Denied

Secret

25X1

Directorate of Intelligence

Afghanistan: Insurgent Manpower (U)

A Research Paper

*Information available as of 1 April 1988
was used in this report.*

This paper was prepared by [ ] Office of Near Eastern and South Asian Analysis, with a contribution from [ ] Office of Leadership Analysis. It was coordinated with the Directorate of Operations, [ ]

25X1

25X1

25X1

Comments and queries are welcome and may be directed to the Chief, South Asia Division, NESA, [ ]

25X1

25X1

Reverse Blank

Secret
NESA 88-10030
May 1988

Relevance of the Political Process

One of the central questions of focus in social capital research is the extent to which social capital is a resource that can be used to improve the performance of organizations and societies. This question is particularly relevant in the context of the current debate on the role of social capital in the development of emerging markets. The current debate is centered on the question of whether social capital is a resource that can be used to improve the performance of organizations and societies, or whether it is a resource that is used to improve the performance of organizations and societies. The current debate is centered on the question of whether social capital is a resource that can be used to improve the performance of organizations and societies, or whether it is a resource that is used to improve the performance of organizations and societies.

Relevance of the Political Process

One of the central questions of focus in social capital research is the extent to which social capital is a resource that can be used to improve the performance of organizations and societies. This question is particularly relevant in the context of the current debate on the role of social capital in the development of emerging markets. The current debate is centered on the question of whether social capital is a resource that can be used to improve the performance of organizations and societies, or whether it is a resource that is used to improve the performance of organizations and societies.

Relevance of the Political Process

One of the central questions of focus in social capital research is the extent to which social capital is a resource that can be used to improve the performance of organizations and societies. This question is particularly relevant in the context of the current debate on the role of social capital in the development of emerging markets. The current debate is centered on the question of whether social capital is a resource that can be used to improve the performance of organizations and societies, or whether it is a resource that is used to improve the performance of organizations and societies.

[illegible]

Secret

Secret